

Engineers Increase Lead; Terriers Lose To Zone

NEYLAND AND BESTS ARTILLERY CLUB FAST GAME; ZONE VICTOR

Hitting of Peno, of Zone Team, Is Feature of Afternoon, Making One Three Base Hit and Two Singles; Engineers Prove That They Can Win Without Maj. Neyland, But Have Close Call With 82nd Gunners.

Walking through the stiff breeze of the 82nd artillery regimental team after its capture of the first line trenches in the initial inning, Maj. H. Neyland's eighth engineer baseball team is today as strongly fortified in the first berth of the El Paso City League column that it is doubtful if the invaders can be thrown back. If there is anyone who can devise a method to stop the consistent trend of the hard hitting construction tribe it would be very welcome to the managers of the other teams of the league as if there is going to be a hard fight for the top position, some would be taken to start something right now. Rubie Mulcahy player notice.

For this star left hander and the $20 artillery team are the only obstacles that have been encountered by the Engineers during their leisurely march toward first prize money. The Gunner team was temporarily eliminated Sunday afternoon when it dropped a heart breaking contest to the eighth of the score of nine to seven, a timely batting best by Neyland's aggregation bringing to a definite end all hope for the Gunner crew.

Neyland Was Awar. As all this was accomplished without the aid of Maj. Neyland, who was absent in Cleveland, bringing to a definite end all hope for the Gunner crew. The fact that the victory was scored during a time when the majority was out of the game, the team both collectively and individually feels much encouraged. In its appearance against the Gunners the eighth showed the same old pep, but it lacked the balance and smoothness of play that has featured its contests in the past. Rees pitched a steady consistent game and divided honors for the day with Fairbanks, who pitched to two batters engaging in a duel from the time the first ball was thrown. Sherman walked in the first inning and went to second when Nixon hit into a fielder's choice. The ball was shot to second after it had bounced in the infield, but it was too late to catch the fast Engineer. Rees hit into a fielder's choice, the ball being hit by Lynch, who threw to second. Kemp went out. Fairbanks, to Lynch, but before Rees had stolen second.

Artillery Scores Some. Fairbanks was safe on Rees' error in the second, dropping his high fly. He went to second when Rees threw wild in an effort to catch him. Minter, who had been hit by Rees, went to second on the throw. Putz and Wilson were out and Lynch singled, scoring Fairbanks. Minter and Lynch for the two final tallies. Thomas started the first inning in the fourth for the Engineers when he slammed out a clean strike. McMurphy walked and Grace filed out. Sherman doubled, scoring Thomas, while Nixon walked. McMurphy and Sherman by a single into right. Rees went out for the final one of the inning.

Pottorff In Safe. With two down in the fourth C. Pottorff, who was safe on error of Grace. The strike and Moore was safe on Thomas' error. Thomas in an attempt to catch Pottorff at the plate threw the ball wild and the runner scored. Fairbanks singled, scoring Tice and Moore. Putz scored in the seventh for the 82nd and a run of successive hits by himself, Wilson and Lynch. Rees, Kemp and Hughes scored the winning runs for the Engineers in the seventh inning when three consecutive hits were laid out in different parts of the field.

Some New Moves. Presenting as many interesting features as it did the first game was surpassed by the second in the matter of entertainment as the Zone Supply and Terrier clubs put up one of the most brilliant games of the season, which threatened to go into extra innings to bring about a definite issue.

When the two teams took the field it was at once noticed that Maj. Conklin of the Zone team had strengthened his lineup in several positions and that the position formerly held by Gallagher was taken by Larry Doyle of 1917 Feldman fame. In the backstop position he had Carvannah, later relieved by Peno, while instead of McAlpine at shortstop, Grover Cunningham appeared to look after the destinies of that position.

In point of fact the team seemed to be greatly strengthened and the conjecture was certainly proved when it defeated the Terriers, as the Jamiki crew made a valiant effort to come back after its double defeat of last Sunday. The work of one player, Peno, who started in right field for Maj. Conklin and was later sent into the backstop position, was the feature of the afternoon, as the hitting of this recent acquisition stamped him as one of the real finds of the season.

Made Loudest Hit. Peno on his first appearance at the plate whaled out the hardest hit that has ever sailed out of the bounds of the Grande game, the ball going over the coal pile in the railway yards, and while it was every bit a home run, owing to a contrary ground rule, he was allowed but three runs.

Again in the fifth when he came to bat, Peno whaled out a crushing slug which struck the right field fence. In the seventh he responded to the evasive of the ball by cracking the grass cutter into right, which put Grover Cunningham with the winning run on third. He later scored on Rees' hit, which Rees made an attempt to stop in deep left. Peno took a short snappy walkoff at the ball, the bat never leaving his shoulder until the sphere is delivered by the pitcher. He did not strike at a ball he did not hit, preferring to wait for one that suited him before taking a chance.

The game was profitably contested throughout, with the Terriers being outlasted on the scoring end until the last two innings, when five runs were added, bringing the tally up to a tie.

The Zone, by a remarkable effort in its half of the seventh, sent over the winning tally. The contest was featured by some snappy and even brilliant infield work, a double play pulled off by Cunningham, Doyle and Patterson, causing tremendous applause from the fans.

Sudenberg Trains Hard For Bout With George August 8

WILL middleweight Johnny Sudenberg, southern department military champion, again attain that wonderful form that featured his decisive victory over Kid Gleason at Fort Bliss, when he faces Fred Kid George on next Friday night in the Fifth cavalry athletic arena.

Local fans are asking each other this question, as there is not a glove game follower in the El Paso district that is not an enthusiastic supporter of Sudenberg and his opponent, who is a former champion of the Fifth cavalry athletic arena.

And incidentally, there are many fans who have watched the workout of George for the past week who believe that the California fighter will come out with flying colors and will defeat Sudenberg in a matter of minutes.

George, in his workouts with Frankie Fowler at Pecos park, has made a big impression on the glove followers and as Fowler is a handy boy with the gloves they can obtain an excellent line on his work. George uses his left on the hard hitting writer and is showing all of those punches which are indicative of a high class fighter.

Jack McDonald In An Accident

Referee Jack McDonald, who officiates in the regular weekly boxing shows of the Fifth cavalry regiment, is nursing a loose tooth sustained when he was parting two battlers in one of the preliminaries last Friday night at the Fifth arena. When the boys were pounding each other in the clinches Jack stepped in and started to break them. Just as he stepped forward the scrappers commenced to mix it again and one threw up his head with such force that it struck the referee in the mouth and loosened one of his front teeth. The accident occurred while Pecos was in line for a match with some high class man from the east in the event he is returned the victor.

DUTY DODGERS WALLOP RIVALS

Wild Throw of Calamia Allows Winning Run to Cross the Plate.

Catcher Calamia's wild throw in an attempt to catch Duffy off second base in the tenth inning allowed Carberry to cross the plate with the tying run giving the Duty Dodgers the game Saturday afternoon at Rio Grande Park a moment later when Duffy scored on Fuller's double single. The final score was 8 to 7.

Early in the game, Ponsford and Gomez locked horns in a pitched duel and it seemed that the game would be decided in favor of the twirler getting the most at bats. Ponsford had the better of the argument—the high school portender whiffing nine batters while Gomez gathered in only 3 strikes out. Gomez walked three batters and three errors chalked up against him proved his undoing. A strike out by Gomez ended the Auto men made 10 errors.

For five innings it seemed that the Dodgers would have a walk away. In the sixth, however, the Mexican clan got busy. Successive singles by Minter, Acosta and Clason netted the Auto men two runs. Calamia's men went into a regular batting spree in the eighth inning, whiffing nine batters while Gomez gathered in only 3 strikes out. Gomez walked three batters and three errors chalked up against him proved his undoing. A strike out by Gomez ended the Auto men made 10 errors.

Coming back in their half of the eighth, the Dodgers retaliated. Gomez trotted in this frame and was replaced on the mound by Romero when a walk to Duty, and a single by Redford and Dwyer allowed the batters another run. Score:
